The customer
Fondazione Policlinico Universitario Agostino Gemelli IRCCS is one of Italy's leading university hospitals and research institutions, based in Rome. Inaugurated in 1964, it combines healthcare, scientific research, innovation and medical education in close collaboration with the Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore.

With over 5,000 employees, the Gemelli is a major healthcare organization in Italy, providing highly specialized medical care across a broad range of disciplines. It is organized into 8 departments and 155 operational units.

Since 2018, the hospital has held IRCCS status (Scientific Institute for Research, Hospitalization and Healthcare) in the fields of personalized medicine and innovative biotechnologies, reflecting its strong focus on translating scientific research and technological innovation into patient care.

Its mission is centered on combining medical excellence, innovation and highly specialized care with a strong patient-focused approach.

The solution at a glance
